HOWARD H. COURT

Born in Donaldston, Prince Edward Island on February 7, 1896, Mr. Court was educated in the local school there. After taking his Eleventh and Twelfth grades as well as his normal training at the Prince of Wales College in Charlottetown, he taught school for two years in Marshfield P. E. I. When war broke out he enlisted as a Gr. in the 20nd. Seige Battery, August 1915, and went overseas in Nov. of the same year.

After the war, Mr. Court held positions as Principal, School Inspector, and Director of

Teacher Training at the Prince of Wales College, a position he held for seven years, until he again enlisted in the army at the outbreak of W. W. II.

During his four years in the service he attained the rank of Major.

Upon his return to Charlottetown in 1944 Mr.

Court took the position of Director of Vocational Training under the Dominion Gov't. Plan for Veteran's Training. In 1947 he came to Alberta and took up the post as Principal of Enchant School, joined the staff of Taber High as Vice Principal in 1955.

DEDICATION

Mr. H. Court

We, the classes of 1961, hereby dedicate this edition of "The Dawn" to Mr. Howard Court. Despite his many obligations and responsibilities, he has always found time not only to be an excellent Social Studies teacher, but also to be a FRIEND to everyone. His unceasing patience and sincere helpfulness has contributed greatly towards the success and happiness of our high school careers. We shall all miss him in the years to come.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

"But that's my right!" How often today we hear this cry from individuals and groups. Everyone seems to be clear about what their 'rights' are -- employers, labor unions, organizations, parents, teenagers and even young children. And, undeniably, each of these has rights - 'inalienable' rights as our southern neighbors are fond of saying. A 'right' is a just and fair claim to anything whatever, either passive, as the right of possession, or active, as the right to pursue a certain course. For example, we all have the right to acquire property or the inherent right to non-interference. We have social, political and economic rights which must be consonant to the laws and customs of our country, provided these laws and customs are not repugnant to the laws of God.

And hand in hand with these rights that we all possess as an innate portion of our human existence, goes responsibility. Responsibility is the state of being answerable or accountable as a person for certain duties or trusts we have undertaken. But are people as eager or willing to bear their responsibilities as they are to enjoy their rights? Consider the student in high school. He also has a responsibility, if he takes advantage of his right to attend school, to study diligently and abide by the regulations made in the school for the purpose of creating the best available learning situation.

Consider also the citizen of a community. He too, has rights, many protected by law. What percentage of citizens however, undertake their responsibilities of being well informed on public issues, voting, running for public office, or raising their voice in community organizations? Too often people have become so used to their freedoms that they forget these can be easily lost. They are too concerned with material advancement to bother with their obligations which they must carry out if they wish to retain their freedoms. If security is the over-riding desire of an individual, let him remember that jail offers maximum security. The Soviet Union, that gigantic prison, offers its citizens maximum security at the price of personal freedoms.

So if you wish to sell your birthright of freedom for the mess of pottage we call economic security, insist on your rights while you studiously avoid your responsibility.

GRAD HISTORY

(See who is who on page 25)

We, the graduands of 1961 have come through a great and marvelous period of transition in our lives -- the first and perhaps one of the greatest inner upheavals that we will experience. Since our youth, our beliefs and ideals have been subjected to an incisive examination and we have met many changes during this period of time.

In moving up the educational ladder, we have encountered new challenges. In the elementary grades we learned, firstly to read and to print. Secondly, from kind and patient instructions and teaching, we developed a good background in arithmetic, language techniques, and natural sciences. Gradually the field of our subjects grew. Yes, we seemed to have come far in gaining knowledge, but there ahead of us looming, large and dark, were the worries and strains of grade nine exams. And finally and unbelievably, we conquered these and moved into a new era, High School.

Yes, this was the last phase of our general and preparatory schooling. New responsibilities and decisions lay ahead of us and of these were the choosing of fields of endeavor and courses that we wished to take, choices consistent with our future aspirations, choices which would lead us on to either a High School Diploma or a Senior Matric.

Who can forget the fun and social activities. But best of all was the enjoyment gained in working with and listening to our teachers. Many of us tried our best but it seems that the profound wisdom we bestowed upon our teachers was rather bewildering and each of us has been reminded that he has "a head like a turnip and isn't fit for a glue factory".

But we must leave now. Our visit is over, and we take with us memories of those joys and frustrations which can be experienced only by a High School student. Our school, our teachers, and our parents have done their job -- they have offered to us the opportunity to develop our intellect, our character, and our personality. Let us hope that we, too, have done our duty by seizing this great opportunity.

"fond farewell"

CLASS VALEDICTORIAN

Tonight marks the realization of a long-cherished dream. Tonight also foresees the termination of all the familiar things that for the last twelve years we have taken for granted as being a part of our lives, and it is then, with mixed emotions, that we must bid farewell to the past and emerge into an adult way of life.

Our many cherished recollections and memories will now be giving way to our new ambitions and hopes. Our school endeavors have laid the ground work for our future achievements. We have been taught fellowship, cooperation, social consciousness, courage; we have learned gaiety, sadness, respect,love. These sentiments we have experienced meaningfully, and it is these things we will endeavor to apply in our coming years.

Ralph Jorstad

Our most dominant feeling tonight is one of gratitude. We realize that this graduation is not a project of our own ingenuity, but is the result of a composition of underlying factors. We gratefully acknowledge the teachers who, through their undying patience and unbounded abilities, have succeeded in seeing the 1961 graduates to the accomplishment of their first goal. We realize the extreme sacrifices of our parents, who unquestionably have played the major role in our education. By their love and gentle guidance we have been led forward in our educational experiences. They have been the ones to instill us with proper attitudes. For their providence of our security and their sage counselling we are deeply grateful.

Our classmates have been responsible for much of our progress, and through our varied relationships together we have grown to respect each other and find satisfaction in one another's company. The feelings developed among us will not be missed until our separation, which is now at hand. Some of the people in our class will pass out of our lives altogether. We will never again be able to experience mass fellowship to such a degree. This is one of graduation's sad aspects, yet this has been one of the really great things of high school.

From henceforth we are responsible to only ourselves. Let us play heartily but accept and carry valiantly the tasks which fall in our hands. Great and exacting will be the toll demanded by duty. In our living may we strive for peace; act wisely in our right to punish and forgive; fight with our honor, our might, our will; and strive for the betterment and brotherhood of mankind.

This graduation marks the first of life's major goals, the attainment of which is now our greatest victory. This good-bye closes a chapter in our lives, for which the struggle has been well worth while. Now, with a firm step, clear eye, and a confident heart, we shall continue on to greater and greater heights. In doing so, the graduation class of '61 says thank you...and farewell.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

I sincerely appreciate the co-operation of the students and of the faculty of Meyers High in supporting our activities this year. I have enjoyed my duties as president and wish to thank all those who have assisted me in any way. May the future students, as they turn these pages, endeavor to continue making Meyers High School an outstanding school.

Good luck to the Grads. May you realize and accomplish your goals in life.

In closing, I would like to quote from Hamlet--"This, above all-to thine own self be true."

INTERMURAL HOUSES

Blue House: Judy Hall, Blaine Burbank; Orange House: Louise Holstine, Bob Powell; Diana Towle - Sports Conveiner; Red House: Judy Vickery, Blair Wills; Purple

House: Gloria Dynes, Pinkey MacDonald.

The intramural program got off to a late start this year due to the confusion caused by the construction of the new school. Even so, the participation was greater this year than last. This may be due to the fact that the first team into the old gym usually won by default because there wasn't room for the opposition.

The houses were evenly matched with the major difference in the point spreads being gained by refereeing and score keeping.

Volleyball was the first to be run off. Competition among teams was keen with the red girls and purple boys being victorious. Orange house was tops in mixed volleyball action.

Basketball followed. Playing in the new gym proved to be a handicap for those players who were also pool sharks. No longer could they bank the ball off the ceiling into the basket. Gone were the days when they could run up the wall to dunk the ball. Purple boys and red girls were the least handicapped as they were victors.

Badminton matches came next. Some of the people are still wondering where their birds flew. Little do they know that they are roosting on the gym beams. As yet on June 6 badminton has not been completed. Pinky MacDonald and Joe Slavik of Purple are in the finals for the boys. Girls have just gotten under way.

Frank Tojnar, blue, and Ted Nishima, purple, are in the finals of the Ping-pong tournament. House standings to June 6 are:

1. Blue - 1245; 2. Red - 970; 3. Orange - 950; 4. Purple - 950.

A MESSAGE FROM MR. GALVIN

Students of today, and I include myself, must realize that they are, and must keep on preparing themselves to become fitting citizens in an era whose social demands are many and great. We must be prepared to enter, as a vital element, into a society where two main ideologies, two main philosophical viewpoints are engaged in an unyielding war for supremacy; where scientific developments have linked together communities of people unlike in customs, basic philosophies etc., where new and powerful forces have been unleashed and now must needs be controlled by a morally sound, deep-thinking, peace-loving group of people.

You the students of Taber Junior High School, are preparing yourselves to become active members of just such a group of people. Many of you this year have portrayed the attitudes of persons who will become the much needed and important contributors toward the progress and betterment of 'our way of life'. Upon you we base our hopes.
